

Guji G2 Organic Dawa Basin Washed

Ethiopia Green Coffee Beans | Genuine Origin

Wild coffee still grows in the ancient forests of Ethiopia. The Dawa Basin is one such semi-forest in the Guji Zone, where the Uraga farmlands sit at high elevations of 1900 to 2100 masl. The farm's 100 hectares of land, plus 320 hectares farmed by over 200 outgrowers, produce between 400-450 tons of organic coffee per annum, and the number grows larger every year.

Producers here carefully select coffee cherries from the mother coffee trees that grow wild in the Dawa Basin to plant in the farm's nursery. By doing so, the seedlings maintain the inherent quality of the wild-grown coffee while rejuvenating the genetics of the mother trees.
