Coffee Background

This rare Papua New Guinea (PNG) Geisha variety coffee comes to us from Cobran Farm in the Kainantu District of PNG's Eastern Highlands Province. An incredible find, our acquisition of this micro-lot was driven by the deep relationships our team on the ground in PNG has established with coffee growers. The coffee was washed and prepared for export at the Lahamenegu Mill, our mill in the Eastern Highlands.

The Gesha coffee variety came into prominence in the "Best of Panama" auction in 2004. At that time, however, the coffee was marketed as Panamanian Geisha, leading to some confusion about the naming and origin of this exceptional variety. The reason: when it was imported, the coffee was listed on the manifest as "Geisha" and the name stuck.

Gesha coffee was collected from the Gesha region in Ethiopia and brought to Central America in 1953 as T2722, the variety we know as Panamanian Geisha today. At the same time, while other Gesha varieties share similarities with the original Ethiopian strain, they remain distinct from T2722. The excellent cup character and delicate floral and fruity notes place Gesha coffee at the top of the list, rarely matched by other varieties in quality.
